Homicide Survivor Program

A homicide survivor is a person who is affected by the homicide of a family member, close friend, neighbor, schoolmate, or member of the community.

This program recognizes the traumatic impact of homicide on individuals and families and we help survivors to find a path to coping with their pain and eventually rebuild and find a 'new normal.'

Independence House offers individual counseling, advocacy and group counseling for homicide survivors. All of our activities are individualized to each person's unique circumstance.

The Independence House Homicide Survivor Program is funded by the Massachusetts Office for Victim Assistance through a 1984 Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) grant.
